1. The Directorate of the Partito Comunista Italiano (PCI; Italian Communist Party) is aware of the deviating tendencies of Deputy Fausto Gullo. It has therefore entrusted Giorgio Amendola and Mario Alicata with persuading Gullo not to deviate from the Party, reminding him that his entire family is pledged to Communism.
2. Italian youths are especially conscious of the ideological dissension which exists between their duties as citizens and the political line of the Party, which is completely subservient to the interests of the Soviet Union. They rebel at the idea that they should not take up arms to defend their country in case of aggression by a foreign power. In order to overcome this ideological dissension, the Federazione Giovanile Comunista Italiana (FGCI; Italian Communist Youth Federation) is publishing a new monthly, entitled Il Costruttore, which will become the official organ of the FGCI. This publication will deal with the most important Party themes and, in this direction, will substitute, in practice, Pattuglia, the weekly FGCI publication. Up to the present time, only one issue of Il Costruttore has been published, printed by the Editrice Gioventu Nuova, 23 Via Cardello, Rome. Several members of the directing committee of the FGCI, including Marisa Musu and Luciana Franzinetti, contributed. This issue also contained an article by Alessandro Curzi, entitled "The Soviet Union, Bulwark of Peace."
